

Dr. Myechia Minter-Jordan President & CEO

Dr. Myechia Minter-Jordan is the President & CEO of The Dimock Center, a community institution serving Boston's Roxbury, Dorchester, Mattapan and Jamaica Plain neighborhoods. As the second largest health center in Boston, Dimock is considered a national model of comprehensive health and human services with an emphasis on the integration of clinical and behavioral health practices.

Dr. Jordan is a graduate of Brown University School of Medicine and Johns Hopkins University Carey School of Business with an MBA in Health Services. After graduation, she joined Johns Hopkins first as an Attending Physician and Instructor of Medicine at Johns Hopkins Medical Center and subsequently as Director of Medical Consultation Services at Johns Hopkins Bayview Medical Center.

In 2007, Dr. Jordan moved to Boston to become Chief Medical Officer for The Dimock Center. In her role of Chief Medical Officer, she aggressively pursued opportunities that made additional resources and expertise available to the community institution. An innovative physician administrator, Dr. Jordan was responsible for the successful transition to the Electronic Medical Record, established Dimock's first Institutional Review Board to pave the way for research using human subjects, and in 2012 led the effort to secure a $4.9 million federal grant from HRSA (Health Resource Services Administration), to expand and transform the health center facility into a medical home.

Dr. Jordan played a leadership role in developing the Harvard Primary Care Center Initiative that partners academic hospitals and community health centers to transform into patient centered medical homes. Through her work with the Harvard Catalyst Clinical and Translational Science Center, she also created an infrastructure for clinical research at Dimock, which will ensure that patients are meaningfully engaged in the creation and approval of research initiatives.

Dr. Minter-Jordan's collaborative approach has led to significant partnerships linking Dimock to world-class institutions such as The Harvard Medical School, Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center and Partners HealthCare. Widely respected for her expertise and insight, Dr. Jordan has published articles in medical publications including The New England Journal of Medicine. She was recently appointed to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Health Planning Council Advisory Committee and the Boston Public Health Commission. She has also served as one of seven governor-appointed physician members of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Board of Registration. Dr. Minter-Jordan also currently serves on the Advisory Board for the Kraft Center for Community Health at Partners HealthCare, Harvard Pilgrim Health Care, The Boston Foundation, The Children's Museum Advisory Board, and the Steering Committee for the Center for Primary Care.

Dr. Minter-Jordan lives in West Roxbury with her husband and two young daughters.
