

Melany Duval
Senior Vice President, Chief Philanthropy Officer
Dana Farber Cancer Institute

Melany Duval is the Senior Vice President and Chief Philanthropy Officer at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and the Jimmy Fund. In this role, she has responsibility for all philanthropic initiatives for Dana-Farber and the Jimmy Fund. She leads the Division of Philanthropy and is a member of the Executive Leadership Team at Dana-Farber.

Melany is a seasoned development executive with over 25 years of extensive experience in fundraising, building teams and managing campaign planning and strategy. Prior to joining Dana-Farber in 2019, she was Vice President of Development at Silicon Valley Community Foundation (SVCF), where she led the team that was responsible for philanthropic activities and fundraising for SVCF. The largest community foundation in the world, SVCF raised more than $1.9 billion in 2018 and 2019 granted over $1.4 billion to organizations in the US and around the world. Prior to joining SVCF, Melany was the Senior Associate Dean and Associate Vice President of Health Science Campus Development at the University of Southern California (USC) and provided leadership for the campaign to raise $1.5 billion for the USC Health Sciences Campus—the largest component of USC’s $6 billion fundraising campaign. She also held leadership positions at Children’s Hospital of Los Angeles and the Saban Research Institute, where she helped successfully complete a $1 billion fundraising campaign — the largest in the institution’s history. Melany began her career at LMU and worked in roles of increasing responsibility ultimately serving as the Associate Vice President and Campaign Director.

Melany earned her bachelor’s degree in political science and business administration from Loyola Marymount University. She is a member of AAMC, AFP, and AHP and previously served as a member of the board of the Woodmark Group and the Jesuit Advancement Administrators.
